Description:

This large chronograph from the Swiss brand GAGNA from the 1970s is very striking in terms of form. An extremely robust metal case from STY, the 7174, was installed in the current stainless steel housing. The blue dial has a date window at 6, the minute counter at 3, and the continuously rotating second at 9. The dark blue coating on the dial contrasts especially the highly contrasted numbers. The oval chronograph is equipped with an over ring with tachymeter marking. The hands have the original luminescent material and the chronograph hand from the center, as well as the hand of the minute counter are in orange. The watch is in remarkably good condition for your age and is sold purchased as large, even today. It comes with a neutral dark blue leather strap with a stainless steel pin buckle. With a stroke rate of 18,000 vibrations per minute, the balance shows an amplitude of 225 degrees and a gear of 48 seconds on the timing machine.
